Editorial. As usual, The Academic Society Journal is always looking for partnerships and initiatives to increase its reach. One of the goals of our journal and of our society as a whole is to enable the scientific community to publish their research without fees. The Open Access format has brought several benefits to the popularization of science since its emergence, bringing quality knowledge to students and institutions that do not have access to paid content.

In this issue, we would like to introduce our new editorial member, Prof. Mauro Machado de Oliveira, Chief Editor of Regrasp Journal (<http://seer.spo.ifsp.edu.br/index.php/regrasp>). Thus, crowning our partnership, we hope that other initiatives can continue forming links and creating networks that facilitate, as always, the daily lives of those who write, those who review and those who read the papers, not the publishers' profits.

Our doors are always open!
